PASTOR STEERS REVIVAL ON TO CONSIDERABLE SUCCESS

Interest Continues in Revival at the Third Street Church—Many Out to Hear Rev. Peters.

The third week of the Methodist revival at Third Street M. E. church started off Monday evening with a good Monday night audience and with interest and impressiveness to the service that has not characterized any other service of the revival. Rev. Peters gave a very impressive sermon based on the scenes in the Savior's life on Monday of Passion Week. The church member that is inactive was likened to the barren fig tree that was cursed by the Master. He urged the church to get in such condition that they constantly bear fruit for the Master. Prof. Grenfel sang "The Heart That Was Broken for Me," one of the most appealing of gospel songs—a sermon in itself. The "Wild Rose" by Terschak, was played as an offertory flute solo.

It is seldom that a pastor can take a revival service and maintain the interest, especially after such a popular evangelist as Rev. Callis has been called away as he was at the time when the meeting was running at high tide. But it is very evident that Rev. Peters is measuring up to the task that has fallen upon him. Realizing the great burden that has been thrust upon him so unexpectedly the church is rallying to him as never before. The meetings are proving a great blessing to the church. Many who have been cold and indifferent are getting right again. There were conversions and reconsecrations on Monday night's service, and many on the point of yielding. Large results are expected from the group prayer meetings which were resumed Tuesday morning and will continue every morning at 10 o'clock. Services will conclude each evening at 7:30 preceded at 7 by the "boosters" meeting.

Plans are now going forward for the reception of a large class into membership next Sunday morning—Easter. It will be a real family service and a special effort will be made to have every family fully represented in Sunday school and morning service. Conveyances will be sent for those who are aged or infirm.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO ADVISE COUNCIL ON PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Meeting of City Council With Business Men Results in the Naming of a Committee to Go Thoroughly Into City's Financial Affairs.

City Council met as a committee of the whole at the Council Chamber on Monday evening and quite a number of invited business men were present.

The present financial situation facing council was discussed at length by not only the Mayor and councilmen but the business men who were present. The report of the auditors who have recently completed a very thorough investigation of the city's books was read and gone into item by item.

Nothing was finally done except that council authorized Mayor Samuel to name a committee of business men to go into the financial affairs of the city and make suggestions to council. The Mayor named on this committee E. T. Kirk, Chairman; J. M. Collins, Clarke Rogers, John M. Hunt, N. S. Calhoun, H. J. Ochsner, Sherman Arn, W. H. Rees and J. Wesley Lee.

This committee is very representative and is composed of leading business men in whom the taxpayers have the greatest confidence. Their suggestions to council will be awaited with interest and no doubt but that council should follow out their suggestions.

The action of selecting such a committee to recommend to council what and how to do in an alleged crisis points out clearly that the Ledger's argument for several years that men of the highest business ability and integrity only should be elected to council, is correct. The citizens of Maysville have entrusted their affairs to Mayor Samuel and his council. That body acknowledges its inability to cope with the situation by calling in this committee of business men, who are public spirited enough to give their time and thought to the problems that come before them.

LEXINGTON MYSTERY MAN IS IDENTIFIED.

The Lexington Leader says:
Authorities here are seeking relatives of William Montgomery, 40, who was found dead on the Georgetown Pike, six miles from Lexington between eleven and twelve o'clock Sunday night.

The body was discovered by passing motorists but was not identified until Monday morning, when Harry Burgoine, superintendent of Walnut Hall Farm, identified it as that of Montgomery, a farm hand who had failed to return home Sunday night.

The man's home address was not known at the farm. A letter from Oakland, Calif., arrived for him today, but it was not known whether or not it was from relatives, as the massive had not been turned over to Coroner John Anglin, who is investigating the man's death. Montgomery had been employed at Walnut Hall farm since last November.

GOOD FRIDAY OBSERVED BY CLOSING OF STORES

Local Organization to Furnish Cards to Local Stores That Will Close on the Afternoon of Good Friday.

A movement is on foot throughout the country to observe Good Friday afternoon in commemoration of the suffering and crucifixion of our blessed Savior which is the big central fact in Christianity. This movement consists chiefly of supplying to the business houses near display cards for their windows reading "This is Good Friday. This place will be closed from noon to 3 p. m." These business houses observing Good Friday by closing their places of business during these hours.

This movement has met with great success and business men of all denominations have joined in the movement and in most of the churches in the city of San Francisco, Detroit, St. Louis and a number of other cities, the different denominations hold a fitting service at this time.

The matter has been taken up here and cards will be distributed by the Holy Name Society to all business houses desiring them and should any be overlooked by inadvertence, they can procure one of the cards at Swift's drug store.

The fact that men of all nations and all times have set apart certain days and occasions for commemorating and honoring their great patriots and great men should be the argument that need be put forward for commemorating Good Friday, this being the day on which the Savior was crucified for the salvation of mankind.

CLEAN-UP WEEK IS FIXED BY JOINT PROCLAMATION

Governor Morrow and State Board of Health Issue Proclamation Fixing First Week in May as Clean-Up Week.

A joint proclamation has been issued by the Governor of Kentucky and the State Board of Health naming the first week in May as Kentucky Clean-Up Week. The proclamation follows:

WHEREAS, Official reports show that sixty out of every one hundred cases of sickness and forty-three out of every one hundred deaths in Kentucky are due to preventable diseases, many of which are the result of conditions brought about by the careless disposal of human and animal discharges. The accumulation of filth and rubbish about the home and premises, which will afford breeding places for flies, mosquitoes, rats and other insects or vermin which will, as soon as the warm weather sets in, act as carriers of disease germs, are not only a menace to health, but are unsightly and a reflection on civic pride, besides contributing to the community's fire hazard.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, E. T. MORROW, Governor of Kentucky, by virtue of authority vested in me by law and in discharge of a manifest public duty, do hereby set apart and proclaim the week from April 30th, to Saturday, May 6th as Kentucky Clean-Up Week, and urge upon all health officials, welfare agencies and public-spirited citizens to at once organize for this work in such way as will insure effective results in their respective communities. The State Board of Health will furnish, upon application, extensive plans for the organization and conduct of such a campaign.

By authority of the Governor of Kentucky, and the State Board of Health this 10th day of April, 1922.

THE GOVERNMENT AND STRIKES

The administration's plan for bringing the coal operators and miners together in conference preliminary to amicable adjustment of disputes in this industry puts the former squarely on the defensive before public opinion. The people are with President Harding and Secretary Davis, and will watch with a perfect understanding of the situation the response which the coal producers make to the suggestion that with the mine union officials in the central competitive field they undertake in all seriousness to prevent a strike. The Department of Labor is engaged in another of those quiet efforts to harmonize contending factions disturbing to the economic peace, and labor and the employers of labor are morally bound to cooperate.

In this instance it so happens that the obligation is something more than moral. What Secretary Davis now seeks is the carrying out in good faith of what amounts to a pledge. When the bituminous coal commission appointed by President Wilson to fix the terms of settlement after the strike of 1919 drafted a award that was written into the agreement between miners and operators in a conference held in New York on March 31, 1920, and a voluntary clause inserted in that agreement provided for an interstate joint conference to be held prior to April 1, 1922, on which date existing contracts were to expire. It is to require compliance with this understanding reached two years ago that Secretary Davis, with the approval of President Harding, now takes such action as is possible.

It so happens that the mine union officials seek such a joint conference and that the operators generally oppose it, although in varying degrees. There is not the slightest doubt that if the miners were objecting, as in this case the operators are objecting, the department would be none the less active in trying to bring adherence to a solemn covenant. The department is serving neither of the interests greatly concerned, but the larger interest indirectly involved, that of the American people.—Washington Post.

YOUR THIRTY SLAVES

Take away all our machinery, steam, gas, water and electrical power and it would require 3,000,000,000 hard-working slaves to duplicate the work done by Americans.

The use of this power gives to every man, woman and child in our country the equivalent of thirty slaves. This is figured out in the latest bulleting of the Smithsonian Institute.

Why envy the nobleman, back in ancient Egypt or Bagdad, with 30 slaves toiling for him? He had swift-running slaves to bring him fish from the ocean and bird tongues from the mountains. Today with a few dimes, you can get a tin can of shrimp brought from Japan, a package of dates from Syria, a bag of nuts from Brazil, and sardines from Norway. Your slaves—machinery and power—bring them. For a few cents, you can buy enough matches to start 1,000 fires. When the ancient nobleman's fire was doused by the rain he shivered in the cold until slaves made a blaze by friction or brought firebrands from afar.

Plenty of old settlers, now living, can recall the days before watches, when they ran a mile from the nearest neighbor's house with a shavelful of blazing coals.

Your real wealth is measured, not in money, but in the number of things you obtain to eat and wear, the ease with which you can get them, the comforts and conveniences of your home, methods of transportation and amusement. It is only a few centuries since even the richest kings had no sewers, running water, rapid transportation, communication, or a "slave" that responded by the mere twist of a button. And, each year adds to our comforts and conveniences. This is merely typical of the processes that have given the average person luxuries that were denied the kings of antiquity. Measured in ancient standards, we are all kings today, with the slaves of electricity, gas, water, steam and machinery constantly toiling for us.

Imagine what would happen were our great "slaves", the public utilities, taken from us.

REAL YCONFER AT WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCES.

The conference of Republicans at the White House Saturday night was the occasion for general expression of opinion on every important issue of national affairs. It was not a bringing together of a number of experienced public men to listen to a felicitating address by Mr. Harding. The purpose of the White House was to have a watching of views—not simply a meeting by the guests of all that the host said.

Democratic leaders who watch the progress of Republican administration of the country's interests cannot fail to note the sharp contrast between present ways of doing things at the White House and the methods employed under the preceding rule. Then, the Democrat who insisted on having opinions of his own was made to understand that he could not find a welcome from his President. Today it is the earnest desire of Mr. Harding to learn the views of all his party's associates—all in anywise responsible for the carrying on of government.

As The Times has remarked before, this latter method may not be productive of absolutely ideal government. The wisest of men err, and perfect rule can come only when mistakes are impossible. But there is no more question as to the superiority of the Harding plan over the Wilson procedure, measured by the good each brings to the people generally, than there is of the popularity of the present White House attitude with Republicans and Democrats alike, in comparison with the way Democrats themselves looked upon Mr. Wilson's way of dealing with them.—St. Louis Times.

PROMINENT MEN TO ADDRESS RIVERWAYS MEETING THIS MONTH

Mississippi Valley Association's Convention at Kansas City to Mean Much for the Valley States —Big Program.

St. Louis, Mo.—Transportation and world economics and their relation to the Mississippi Valley territory, representing the keynote of the fourth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Association to be held at Kansas City, April 25-26, will be discussed by the leading railway executives, waterway enthusiasts, and economists of the country, according to the tentative convention program made public recently by R. H. Faxon, secretary-treasurer of the Mississippi Valley Association, as chairman of the Resolutions Committee. T. J. Brodnax, Kansas City, president, Frisco Elevators, is in charge of the program arrangements.

Arrangements have been made by the Mississippi Valley Association with railroad associations for the establishment of reduced fares from Valley points to Kansas City on the basis of one and one-half fares for the round trip.

It is understood that these speakers are to be augmented by other figures of similar national importance.

The subjects to be discussed during the convention as cited in the program are as follows: railways, waterways, highways, reclamation, sales tax legislation, tax-exempt securities, American valuation plan, foreign trade and agriculture. Several other important subjects such as "After the Genoa Conference—what," and the disposition of the Allied Debt, are to feature the convention as major topics of national and international interest.

The tentative program announces the appointment of H. H. Merrick, of Chicago, as chairman of the Nominating Committee, and W. P. Trickett, Minneapolis, Manager, Minneapolis Tariff Association, as chairman of the Resolutions Committee. T. J. Brodnax, Kansas City, president, Frisco Elevators, is in charge of the program arrangements.

MEDITATIONS OF A SCRUB BULL

They call me a scrub bull; yet I have a pedigree. I was sired by a scrub, dam'd by a scrub, and am treated like a scrub, and I sometimes think I am owned by a scrub. My tribe outnumbers pure-bred bulls four to one. Just why I should exist is a mystery even to me. Yet, I am not responsible for it. I was brought into the world without my consent and I shall probably leave it against my will. In the meantime I am getting the most vicious publicity, principally through the farm press. They say I am a roncado and an abomination, and should be exterminated. Daileymen passing my owner's farm look at me with contempt; even the cows show no respect. My own daughters seem to hold a grudge against me, saying that I am responsible for their low production. I cannot argue the point, for it is true. But what can I do? My owner must think a lot of me personally, or he would not continue to support me, knowing that I can never improve the quality of his herd or be of profit to him. These cow testing associations are certainly showing me up, and I can see the handwriting on the wall. My tribe is doomed! Under the keen competition and low prices of good pure-bred bulls there will soon be no place on the farm for me. So, goodbye. I may be gone but not forgotten, for I have retarded the development of the dairy industry for many years. — J. E. Dorman in the Nebraska Agricultural College extension notes.

MISS STONE WILL

RUSH TO MOTHER

New York, April 7.—Miss Olivia M. P. Stone, graduate nurse, who was acquitted by a supreme court jury in Brooklyn Thursday night on the murder of Ellis Guy Kinkead, is going to hurry home to her aged mother in Tompkinsville, Ky., as soon as she can arrange her affairs here, she said today.

Fear that news of her troubles would upset her mother was one of Miss Stone's greatest concerns all through the period between Kinkead's slaying and her trial. She managed to keep her mother in ignorance of the case until the trial was nearly over when Mrs. Stone learned of it and sent her a tender letter of sympathy.

"Bobbed Hair" is Big Feature Picture At the Washington and Gen. Today.

What is art, anyway? That is the question which bothered Polly Henth, the heroine with artistic "yearnings" portrayed by Wanda Hawley in "Bobbed Hair," a new Realart Picture feature distributed by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation which will be seen at the Washington theater Tuesday.

Her friend in the "emancipated" colony sent her a sculptured head which looked like a blind mole in the lost stages of coco poisoning, and assured her it was art. Her fiance told her that it was highest truest art to marry him, keep a comfortable home, and rear beautiful children. But Polly was not convinced.

When her aunt attempted to discipline her by locking her in a room, Polly escaped through the window and ran away to the colony and joined her friend. There she met Paul Lamont, the poet, and had a series of adventures which finally tossed her back into her fiance's arms, a chastened but a wiser girl.

In the part of the fiancee, William Boyd has the leading role. William P. Carleton enacts the poet. Adele Farrington plays the severe aunt, while Leigh Wyant is the "emancipated" friend. Ethel Wales is the abused wife, and the "caecolytes" are played by Jane Starr and Margaret Vilmore. A pair of clever children, Juval Coghill and Hohart Kelly, also appear.

FANNIE BRICE
sings "I'm An Indian" on a new Victor record of her own, but after the tom-toms die down and the smoke clears away she confesses that she's after all, a Yiddisher squaw.

She reverses things on the other side of this hectic record by assuming spinsterhood and decrying in good Brooklyn Yiddish a low-lifer named Nathan, who is responsible. "Oh, How I Hate That Fellow Nathan."

FOURTEEN CARS DERAILED.

Fourteen loaded coal cars of a northbound Louisville & Nashville freight train were derailed at Morgan station Sunday afternoon, completely blocking both the north and southbound tracks. The ties were cut as though with an ax for a distance of an eighth of a mile, and the cars were lost crossways of the tracks. Fast trains were detoured through Mayaville for Cincinnati.
